

BONE DEEP SUMMARY

Use the points we came up with in class to help you create a visual summary or storyboard.

A storyboard is a visual representation of a story that conveys the main idea or message. It includes only the key details.

Here are the key points we came up with in class:

- a man and woman go camping in a remote area and man is seriously injured by an axe
- the woman helps the man into the canoe and paddles across the river to their car
- she drags the man to the car and has to smash the window because she has forgotten the keys
- she puts the man in the back and then tries to hotwire the car
- once she realizes that she can't start the car she decides to go for help she runs to the road and is struck by a pickup truck
- The woman is taken to a local hospital and is in a coma

Storyboard Success Criteria

My storyboard should:

- accurately and visually display the key elements of the story
- be neat and have some colour
- include a title
- have the key details presented in chronological order

Select the method you feel would best allow you to create your storyboard. You may draw, still capture images, photoshop images, take pictures or cut images from another source.

Have Fun!!!
